Solidarity to Solutions Week

The It Takes Roots Solidarity to Solutions Week, September 8-14, will take place parallel to the Global Climate Action Summit (GCAS), where California Gov. Jerry Brown and global business leaders will promote their costly corporate schemes as silver-bullet solutions to climate change.

Stopping these destructive schemes, that serve only to feed disaster capitalism, racism and climate change, and reinvesting in local community solutions is the key to ensuring a Just Transition from the current extractive economy to a regenerative economy. We need solutions that address the multiple, interconnected injustices faced by communities of color, the Indigenous, women and the poor. Nothing less will do.
